DIFFERENTIATED INSTRUCTION: MEET THE NEEDS OF ALL LEARNERS

This interactive workshop will offer educators “take back and use” strategies to help all students succeed in the classroom. Linda Tilton, author of The Teacher’s Toolbox for Differentiating Instruction, will offer practical strategies and inspire educators to try new ideas and see each student as an individual. Leave this session with dozens of tools, tips and techniques to use immediately in your classroom.

Key Questions the workshop will address include:

- How can we meet the needs of every learner to maximize achievement?
- How can we address the needs of struggling students in the differentiated classroom?
- What are the components of Differentiated Instruction I and how can we apply these components in our teaching?
- How can we incorporate practical strategies that promote:
 - relationship building
 - include concrete review strategies
 - assist with organizational skills
 - improve reading, vocabulary and math skills

Presenter:

Linda Tilton is an international author, speaker and K-12 teacher with over 30 years in the field of education. Linda’s enthusiasm, positive approach and high energy make her fast-paced presentations inspirational and exciting for teachers eager to maximize student learning.
