

The Peaceful School Bus Program

Capital Region BOCES is pleased to announce The Peaceful School Bus Program with author Jim Dillon, principal of Lynnwood Elementary in Guilderland, NY. Bullying on the school bus is a significant problem with damaging and far-reaching effects- even into the classroom. Using the principle that everyone has a responsibility to end bullying, the Peaceful School Bus Program brings together administrators, teachers, bus drivers, parents and students to discuss the dynamics of school bus bullying and its solution. This program offers different, proactive strategies to creating safety and security on the bus which will then carry over into the school building. This training is appropriate for teachers, social workers and administrators interested in utilizing the strategies of this program as well as schools that are already implementing the program. Teams from buildings are encouraged to attend. Although this program is implemented by school personnel, transportation personnel might be interested in hearing about it.
